Methodology

Tender's Safeguarding Policy has been reviewed and developed drawing on the Charity Commission's updated guidance on safeguarding & protecting people (October 2019); on the increased safeguards that have now been introduced under the Vetting and Barring Scheme by the Independent Safeguarding Authority; from the Department for Education's "Keeping Children Safe in Education September 2022" document¹; and Ofsted's document "Working Together to Safeguard Children 2018"²

Tender's Safeguarding Policy has been reviewed in November 2022. It should be read in conjunction with Tender's other policies especially: Equal Opportunities, Grievance; Disciplinary; Health & Safety and Code of Conduct (see Appendix B); Recruitment; Whistleblowing and Complaints.

It is underpinned by a considerable body of legislation, government guidance and standards, designed to ensure that children are protected from harm including: The Children Act 1989 and 2004, Human Rights Act 1998 and The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (ratified by the UK Government in 1991) Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act (2006), and Equalities Act (2010).

The policy is approved and endorsed by the board of trustees.

Section 1: Tender's Commitment to Safeguarding

Policy Statement

Tender is an organisation that is committed to practice which protects all children, young people and vulnerable adults from harm, regardless of age, gender, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation or religion. Trustees, staff and volunteers in this organisation accept and recognise our responsibilities to develop awareness of the issues that cause children harm and be fully conversant with the correct policies and procedures of the organisation for safeguarding against harm. We aim to create a culture of vigilance in the operations of the organisation to ensure that safeguarding sits at the heart of all planning, activity and development. (Tender is the trading name of 'Tender Education and Arts', registered charity no. 1100214, and company limited by guarantee, no. 4627846)

Aim and Purpose

This policy is to make clear to staff, trustees and volunteers their direct and reporting responsibilities and the actions they should take in safeguarding children and vulnerable adults from harm when participating in Tender projects.

Definitions

Safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children is defined for the purposes of this guidance as:

1. Protecting children from maltreatment.
2. Preventing impairment of children's mental and physical health or development.
3. Ensuring that children grow up in circumstances consistent with the provision of safe and effective care.
4. Taking action to enable all children to have the best outcomes.

Children are all young people under the age of 18 and vulnerable people over this age. Vulnerable young people are those who have difficulty in protecting themselves from harm, due to physical, communication, perceptual or emotional difficulties, for example those with disabilities or learning difficulties or who are seriously or chronically ill. The definition of child extends to include those up to the age of 19 years old within school settings where they are treated as children for the purposes of safeguarding.

Young People: The United Nations, for statistical purposes, defines 'youth', as those persons between the ages of 15 and 24 years. Youth is best understood as a period of transition from the dependence of childhood to adulthood's independence. That is why, as a category, youth is more fluid than other fixed age-groups. Yet, age is the easiest way to define this group, particularly in relation to education and employment, because 'youth' is often referred to a person between the ages of leaving compulsory education and finding their first job.³

An adult at risk (also referred to as vulnerable adult) is defined as aged 18 years or over; who may be in need of community care services by reason of mental or other disability, age or illness; and who is or may be unable to take care of him or herself, or unable to protect him or herself against significant harm or exploitation.⁴

Staff includes all people employed by and associated with Tender on any basis: trustees, permanent, part-time, freelance, sessional, casual or voluntary. For clarity, trustees, staff, workshop leaders and volunteers may be differentiated within this policy.

Tender endeavours to safeguard children, young people and at-risk adults by adopting safeguarding guidelines through procedures and a Code of Conduct for staff:

- Carefully following the procedures for recruitment and selection of staff.
- Providing effective management for staff through supervision, support and training.
- Sharing information about concerns with relevant professional agencies.
- Sharing information about Tender's safeguarding policy and good practice with teachers, group leaders, carers, parents, staff and volunteers.
- Reviewing its policies and practice at regular 2-year intervals.

Tender perceives violence and social complacency in respect of violence towards women, children, young people and vulnerable adults as an abuse of human rights. We believe that education to prevent this abuse is the key to social change.

As a violence prevention and education organisation, working in part through theatre and creative arts in the United Kingdom, we believe that:

- The welfare of the child, young person and vulnerable adult is paramount.
- All children, young people and vulnerable adults, whatever their age, gender, ethnicity, disability, sexual orientation or religion have the right to protection from abuse.
- All suspicions and allegations of abuse should be taken seriously and responded to in a timely and appropriate fashion.
- All staff should be clear on how to respond appropriately.

Tender will take every reasonable step to ensure that children, young people and vulnerable adults are protected where:

- Our own staff are directly involved in the delivery of a project.
- Our staff recruit or broker relationships between an artist or arts facilitator and a third party.
- We seek to promote a positive ethos of collaborative work between the professional arts sector and children, young people and/or vulnerable adults.

If a complaint is made against, or criminal proceedings are commenced in respect of any individual representing Tender, Tender will treat the situation with gravity and the utmost urgency.

Safe Recruitment Practices & Disclosure

Tender follows the procedures for the safe selection, vetting and recruitment of staff (See Appendix J for additional information).

Staff working on projects involving direct contact with children, young people and vulnerable adults should work in a way that protects children and vulnerable adults from harm. Tender requires:

- Candidates applying for posts involving contact with children, young people and/or vulnerable adults are informed in writing that a Disclosure check will be carried out, and that any offer of employment is conditional upon them having no conviction relevant to working with children. This includes but is not limited to convictions for sexual and domestic violence and violence against children.
- All staff to apply for, or present, an Enhanced Disclosure from the Disclosures and Barring Service (DBS), Child and Adult Workforce. Tender arranges for this to take place. Applicants can submit a DBS certificate already held if the certificate has all the correct personal details and was issued not more than 2 years prior to the post starting date. Tender encourages all staff to sign up to the DBS Update Service. If not signed up to the Update Service, staff will need to renew their DBS certificate every 2 years.
- All staff must provide two references which will be recorded on their file. References are requested and followed up on (ensuring that there is a question about appropriateness of candidate to work with children, young people and vulnerable adults). Tender's standard reference request form has been designed to ensure we elicit relevant information and referees are aware of the need to disclose accurate information.
- Staff to sign a declaration stating that there is no reason why they would be considered unsuitable to work with these groups of people, to declare all previous convictions and to notify Tender if they incur a criminal conviction that isn't present on their DBS. (Appendix C)
- Staff who are waiting for a DBS certificate to be returned will have no independent, and unsupervised access to any young person.
- On the return of the DBS certificate, if an offence against a child or children be revealed then the applicant will be informed that they are unsuitable for the post after the Chief Executive has sought the relevant advice (e.g., NSPCC, Local Safeguarding Children's Boards or Police).

Additionally, Tender:

- Always employs freelance staff who have experience, skills, and qualifications to lead drama/arts-based activities with groups of children, young people or vulnerable adults (as appropriate).
- Ensures that all staff must be aware of Tender's child protection principles, guidance and procedures and operate within those procedures. All staff sign to say they have read the policy and procedures and these signatures are kept on their personal files.
- Gives all freelance staff and trustees at induction, a copy of Tender's policies on Equal Opportunities; Grievance; Disciplinary; Whistle blowing and Health & Safety as well as the Code of Conduct When Working with Children & Young People.
- Ensures that a teacher, youth worker, care worker or other group leader is present during workshops.
- Ensures that all staff, including freelance staff, do not work alone with children, young people or vulnerable adults.

- Ensures freelance staff are aware of the allegation section of this policy and understand how to make allegations if they have a concern about another member of the team or partner organisations' behaviour towards a child, young person or vulnerable adult.

Staff Supervision

All staff are expected to read and become familiar with the Safeguarding Policy, Equal Opportunity Policy and Keeping Children Safe in Education 2022 as part of their induction. They will sign a document confirming they have read these documents (Appendix C).

Training

Tender draws on the Safeguarding Training Competency Framework⁵ to ensure all trustees, employed and freelance staff have the correct level of safeguarding training, and it is updated at sufficient intervals; Tender's Safeguarding Team should undertake formal training every 2 years or as directed by agency specific guidance. Other staff are required to undertake internal refresher training every 2 years.

The Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) helps employers make safer recruitment decisions and prevent unsuitable people from working with vulnerable groups, including children. It replaces the Criminal Records Bureau (CRB) and Independent Safeguarding Authority (ISA). It is an executive, non-departmental public body of the Home Office. Disclosure and Barring provides an information service to enable employers to make decisions about the staff that they employ in order to protect the safety of vulnerable groups, including children. A Disclosure is an impartial and confidential document that details an individual's criminal record, and where appropriate, details of those who are banned from working with children and other vulnerable groups.

For further information regarding Disclosures, please visit the Disclosures and Barring website: <https://www.gov.uk/government/organisations/disclosure-and-barring-service/about>

Under the Protection of Children Act of 1999 and the Criminal Justice and Court Services Act 2000, it is an offence for any organisation to offer employment that involves regular contact with young people under the age of 18 or vulnerable adults to anyone who is included on the DBS children's barred list and the adults' barred list for England, Wales and Northern Ireland. It is also an offence for people convicted of such offences to apply for work with young people.

A disclosure check should not be carried out in advance of an offer of employment, but recruitment must be planned to allow time for the check to be completed before the candidate takes up the post.

Volunteers and Students on Placement

From time-to-time Tender hosts placements for volunteers and students studying arts management, performing arts and other similar courses who wish to gain practical experience of participatory arts work with children and young people. It is Tender's policy that:

- Students/volunteers have an up-to-date DBS (issued within the last 2 years) or be signed up to the DBS Update Service.

⁵ <http://www.londoncp.co.uk/>

- Students/volunteers do not have unsupervised contact with children, young people or vulnerable adults.

Section 2: Understanding Child Abuse

What is Child Abuse?

It is generally accepted that there are four main forms of child abuse and that in all forms of abuse there are elements of emotional abuse.⁶ Some children are subjected to more than one form of abuse at any one time. These four definitions do not minimise other forms of maltreatment:

- Physical Abuse – may involve hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning or scalding, drowning or suffocation, FGM, amongst others.
- Emotional Abuse – persistent emotional ill treatment that is likely to cause serious harm to the child’s emotional development. May involve making a child feel that they are worthless, unloved or inadequate and cause children to feel frightened, in danger, exploited or corrupted.
- Sexual Abuse – forcing or enticing a child to take part in sexual activities, whether or not they are aware of what is happening. May involve physical contact, penetrative or non-penetrative acts. Also includes involving children in watching pornographic material or watching sexual acts. Sexual abuse can be perpetrated by males or females and by other young people.
- Neglect – the persistent failure of a parent or carer to meet a child’s basic physical and, or, psychological needs, which is likely to result in the serious impairment of the child’s health or development.

Tender is committed to acting in the best interests of children, seeing these interests as paramount.⁷

How can you recognise if abuse is taking place?

Recognising child abuse is not easy. It is not the responsibility of Tender staff to decide whether or not child abuse has taken place, or if a child is at significant risk: that is a task for professional child protection agencies. However, it is their responsibility to act if there is a concern.

Everyone has a responsibility to report suspected or alleged child abuse.

Anyone working for Tender may become aware of child abuse in a number of ways including:

- A child may disclose that he/she is being abused at home or elsewhere, including by someone within the organisation.
- Someone else might report that a child has told them, or that they strongly believe, that a child has been or is being abused.
- A child might show some signs of physical injury for which there appears to be no satisfactory explanation.
- A child’s behaviour may indicate that it is likely that she or he is being abused.
- A child is observed abusing another.

⁷ NSPCC Safeguarding children <https://www.nspcc.org.uk/preventing-abuse/safeguarding/>

The following information is not designed to turn you into an expert, but it will help to be more alert to the signs of possible abuse.

1. Physical Abuse

Most children will collect cuts and bruises in their daily life. These are likely to be in places where there are bony parts of their body, like elbows, knees and shins.

Some children, however, will have bruising which can almost only have been caused non-accidentally. An important indicator of physical abuse is where bruises or injuries are unexplained, or the explanation does not fit the injury, or when it appears on parts of the body where accidental injuries are unlikely, e.g., on the cheeks or thighs. A delay in seeking medical treatment when it is obviously necessary is also a cause for concern.

Bruising may be more or less noticeable on children with different skin tones or from different racial groups and specialist advice may need to be taken.

The physical signs of abuse may include:

- Unexplained bruising, marks or injuries on any part of the body.
- Bruises which reflect hand marks or fingertips (from slapping or pinching).
- Cigarette burns.
- Bite marks.
- Broken bones.
- Scalds.

Changes in behaviour, which can also indicate physical abuse:

- Fear of parents being approached for an explanation.
- Aggressive behaviour or severe temper outbursts.
- Flinching when approached or touched.
- Reluctance to get changed, for example wearing long sleeves in hot weather.
- Depression.
- Withdrawn behaviour.
- Running away from home.

2. Emotional Abuse

Emotional abuse can be difficult to measure, and often children who appear well cared for may be emotionally abused by being taunted, put down or belittled. They may receive little or no love, affection or attention from their parents or carers. Emotional abuse can also take the form of children not being allowed to mix/play with other children.

The physical signs of emotional abuse may include:

- Failure to thrive or grow, particularly if the child puts on weight in other circumstances, e.g., in hospital or away from their parents' care.
- Sudden speech disorders.
- Developmental delay, either in terms of physical or emotional progress.

Changes in behaviour, which can also indicate emotional abuse, include:

- Neurotic behaviour, e.g., hair twisting, rocking.
- Being unable to play.
- Fear of making mistakes.
- Self-harm.
- Fear of parent being approached regarding their behaviour.

3. Sexual Abuse

Child sexual abuse involves forcing or inciting a child to take part in sexual activity, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening, and not necessarily involving a high level of violence. This form of abuse can be perpetrated against both girls and boys of all ages, including infants and toddlers. Child sexual abuse can be committed by both men and women, or other children.

Usually, in cases of sexual abuse it is the child's behaviour that may cause you to become concerned, although physical signs can also be present. In all cases, children who talk about sexual abuse do so because they want it to stop. It is important, therefore, that they are listened to and taken seriously.

The physical signs of sexual abuse may include:

- Pain or itching in the genital/anal areas.
- Bruising or bleeding near genital/anal areas.
- Sexually transmitted disease.
- Vaginal discharge or infection.
- Stomach pains.
- Discomfort when walking or sitting down.
- Pregnancy.

Changes in behaviour that can indicate sexual abuse include:

- Sudden or unexplained changes in behaviour, e.g., becoming aggressive or withdrawn.
- Fear of being left with a specific person or group of people.
- Having nightmares.
- Running away from home.
- Sexual knowledge which is beyond their age and developmental level.
- Sexual drawings or language.
- Bedwetting.
- Eating problems such as overeating or anorexia.
- Self-harm or mutilation, sometimes leading to suicide attempts.
- Saying they have secrets they cannot tell anyone about.
- Substance or drug abuse.
- Suddenly having unexplained sources of money.
- Not being allowed to have friends (particularly in adolescence).
- Acting in a sexually explicit way towards adults.

4. Neglect

Neglect can be a difficult form of abuse to recognise yet have some of the most lasting and damaging effects on children.

The physical signs of neglect may include:

- Constant hunger, sometimes stealing food from other children.
- Constantly dirty or 'smelly'.
- Loss of weight or being constantly underweight.
- Inappropriate dress for the conditions.

Changes in behaviour, which can also indicate neglect, may include:

- Complaining of being tired all the time.
- Not requesting medical assistance and/or failing to attend appointments.
- Having few friends.
- Mentioning their being left alone or unsupervised.

The above list is not meant to be definitive but as a good guide to assist you. It is important to remember that many children and young people will exhibit some of these indicators at some time, and the presence of one or more should not be taken as proof that abuse is occurring.

There may well be other reasons for changes in behaviour, such as a death or the birth of a new baby in their family, relationship problems between their parents/carers, etc.

Other Safeguarding Concerns

Female Genital Mutilation and so-called 'Honour-Based' Abuse

Tender views the illegal practice of Female Genital Mutilation (FGM) as a form of child abuse. Female genital mutilation refers to procedures that intentionally alter or cause injury to the female genital organs for non-medical reasons.

So-called 'Honour-Based' Abuse (HBA) encompasses crimes which have been committed to protect or defend the honour of the family and/or the community, including Female Genital Mutilation, forced marriage, and practices such as breast ironing. All forms of so called HBA are abuse (regardless of the motivation) and should be handled and escalated as such. Indicators of 'Honour-Based' Abuse may include:

- Acting withdrawn or upset.
- Bruising or other unexplained physical injury.
- Depression, self-harming or attempted suicide.
- Unexplained absence or poor performance at school or work.
- Their movements at home are strictly controlled.
- Family rows, domestic abuse.
- Running away from home.
- A family history of relatives going missing.⁸

⁸ <https://www.met.police.uk/advice/advice-and-information/honour-based-abuse/honour-based-abuse/>

FGM mandatory reporting duty for teachers Section 5B of the Female Genital Mutilation Act 2003 (as inserted by section 74 of the Serious Crime Act 2015) places a statutory duty upon teachers, along with regulated health and social care professionals in England and Wales, to report to the police where they discover (either through disclosure by the victim or visual evidence) that FGM appears to have been carried out on a girl under 18. If a member of Tender staff believes that FGM has been carried out on a girl aged under 18 they have an obligation to report it to the Police immediately by calling 101 and then following Tender's disclosure reporting procedure. This is then reported in the same way all disclosures of abuse are reported at Tender. Indications that FGM may have already taken place may include:

- Difficulty walking, sitting or standing and may even look uncomfortable.
- Spending longer than normal in the bathroom or toilet due to difficulties urinating.
- Spending long periods of time away from a classroom during the day with bladder or menstrual problems.
- Frequent urinary, menstrual or stomach problems.
- Prolonged or repeated absences from school or college, especially with noticeable behaviour changes (e.g., withdrawal or depression) on the girl's return.
- Reluctance to undergo normal medical examinations.
- Confiding in a professional without being explicit about the problem due to embarrassment or fear.
- Talking about pain or discomfort between her legs.

Child Sexual Exploitation (CSE)

CSE is a form of child sexual abuse. It occurs where an individual, or group, takes advantage of an imbalance of power to coerce, manipulate or deceive a child or young person under the age of 18 into sexual activity, a) in exchange for something the victim needs or wants, and/or b) for the financial advantage or increased status of the perpetrator or facilitator. CSE does not always involve physical contact; it can occur through the use of technology, so it is also important to recognise that some young people who are being sexually exploited do not exhibit any external signs of this abuse.

Indicators of child sexual exploitation may include:

- Acquisition of money, clothes, mobile phones, etc. without plausible explanation.
- Gang-association and/or isolation from peers/social networks.
- Exclusion or unexplained absences from school, college or work.
- Leaving home/care without explanation and persistently going missing or returning late.
- Excessive receipt of texts/phone calls.
- Returning home under the influence of drugs/alcohol.
- Inappropriate sexualised behaviour for age/sexually transmitted infections.
- Evidence of/suspicions of physical or sexual assault.
- Relationships with controlling or significantly older individuals or groups.
- Multiple callers (unknown adults or peers).
- Frequenting areas known for sex work.
- Concerning use of internet or other social media.
- Increasing secretiveness around behaviours.
- Self-harm or significant changes in emotional well-being.

Potential vulnerabilities include:

Although the following vulnerabilities increase the risk of child sexual exploitation, it must be remembered that not all children with these indicators will be exploited. Child sexual exploitation can occur without any of these issues.

- Having a prior experience of neglect, physical and/or sexual abuse.
- Lack of a safe/stable home environment, now or in the past (domestic abuse or parental substance misuse, mental health issues or criminality, for example).
- Recent bereavement or loss.
- Social isolation or social difficulties.
- Absence of a safe environment to explore sexuality.
- Economic vulnerability.
- Homelessness or insecure accommodation status.
- Connections with other children and young people who are being sexually exploited.
- Family members or other connections involved in adult sex work.
- Having a physical or learning disability.
- Being in care (particularly those in residential care and those with interrupted care histories).
- Sexual identity.

Child Criminal Exploitation (CCE)

CCE is where an individual or group takes advantage of an imbalance of power to coerce, control, manipulate or deceive a child into any criminal activity (a) in exchange for something the victim needs or wants, and/or (b) for the financial or other advantage of the perpetrator or facilitator and/or (c) through violence or the threat of violence.

The victim may have been criminally exploited even if the activity appears consensual. CCE does not always involve physical contact; it can also occur through the use of technology.

Some of the following can be indicators of CCE:

- Children who appear with unexplained gifts or new possessions.
- Children who associate with other young people involved in exploitation.
- Children who suffer from changes in emotional well-being.
- Children who misuse drugs and alcohol.
- Children who go missing for periods of time or regularly come home late.
- Children who regularly miss school or education or do not take part in education.

County Lines

County lines is a term used to describe gangs and organised criminal networks involved in exporting illegal drugs (primarily crack cocaine and heroin) into one or more importing areas within the UK, using dedicated mobile phone lines or other form of 'deal line'.

Exploitation is an integral part of the county lines offending model with children and vulnerable adults exploited to move and store drugs and money. Offenders will often use coercion, intimidation, violence (including sexual violence) and weapons to ensure compliance of victims.

Children can easily become trapped by this type of exploitation as county lines gangs create drug debts and can threaten serious violence and kidnap towards victims (and their families) if they attempt to leave the county lines network.

Domestic Abuse

The definition of Domestic Abuse is:

Any incident or pattern of incidents of controlling, coercive, threatening behaviour, violence or abuse between those aged 16 or over who are, or have been, intimate partners or family members regardless of gender or sexuality. The abuse can encompass but is not limited to; psychological; physical; sexual; financial; and emotional.

All children can witness and be adversely affected by domestic abuse in the context of their home life where domestic abuse occurs between family members. Exposure to domestic abuse and/or violence can have a serious, long lasting emotional and psychological impact on children. In some cases, a child may blame themselves for the abuse or may have had to leave the family home as a result. All children witnessing domestic violence are being emotionally abused, and this is now recognised as 'significant harm' in legislation.

Radicalisation

Section 26 of the Counterterrorism and Security Act 2015 refers to, 'due regard to the need to prevent people being drawn into terrorism.' The Prevent Duty 2015 states, 'it is essential that staff are able to identify children who may be vulnerable to radicalisation and know what to do when they are identified. Protecting children from the risk of radicalisation should be seen as part of a schools' and childcare providers' wider safeguarding duties and is similar in nature to protecting children from other harms (e.g., drugs, gangs, neglect, sexual exploitation), whether these come from within their family or are the product of outside influences.' If a member of Tender staff is concerned about the potential radicalisation of a child, young person or vulnerable adult, they should follow the disclosure procedures outlined in this document.

Signs of students who are possibly being drawn into extremist ideology:

Radicalisation can be difficult to spot. Signs that may indicate a child is being radicalised include:

- Isolating themselves from family and friends.
- Talking as if from a scripted speech.
- Unwillingness or inability to discuss their views.
- A sudden disrespectful attitude towards others.
- Increased levels of anger.
- Increased secretiveness, especially around internet use.

Children who are at risk of radicalisation may have low self-esteem or be victims of bullying or discrimination. Extremists might target them and tell them they can be part of something special, later brainwashing them into cutting themselves off from their friends and family.

Refer to the Prevent Duty document for more information.⁹

Online Abuse

Online safety (e-Safety) is an essential element of safeguarding all children and adults in the digital world. The internet and information communication technologies are an important part of everyday life, so children must be supported to be able to learn how to develop strategies to manage and respond to risk so they can be empowered to build resilience online. Some of the dangers may include:

- Access to illegal, harmful or inappropriate images or other content.
- Loss of privacy / control of personal information.
- Grooming by those with whom they make contact on the internet.
- The sharing / distribution of personal images without an individual's consent or knowledge.
- Inappropriate communication / contact with others, including strangers.
- Cyber-bullying.
- Access to unsuitable video / internet games.
- The potential for excessive use which may impact on the social and emotional development and learning of the young person.

Child-on-Child Abuse

Staff should be aware that safeguarding issues can manifest themselves via child-on-child abuse. This is most likely to include, but not limited to:

- Bullying (including cyberbullying).
- Physical abuse such as hitting, kicking, shaking, biting, hair pulling, or otherwise causing physical harm.
- Sexual violence and sexual harassment.
- Gender-based violence.
- Sexting (also known as youth produced sexual imagery).
- Initiation-type violence and rituals.

Abuse is abuse and should never be tolerated or passed off as “banter” or “part of growing up”. Different gender issues can be prevalent when dealing with child-on-child abuse. This could, for example, include girls being sexually touched/assaulted or boys being subject to initiation-type violence.

Mental Health

All Tender staff are aware that mental health problems can, in some cases, be an indicator that a child has suffered or is at risk of suffering abuse, neglect or exploitation.

Staff are not expected or trained to diagnose mental health conditions or issues but may notice behaviours that may be of concern. Where staff have a mental health concern about a child that may also be a safeguarding concern, they should raise the issue by informing the Designated Safeguarding Lead or Deputy.

Special Educational Needs and Disabilities

Children and young people with special educational needs and disabilities can face additional safeguarding challenges because:

- There may be assumptions that indicators of possible abuse such as behaviour, mood and injury relate to the child's disability without further exploration.
- Children with SEN and disabilities can be disproportionately impacted by things like bullying without outwardly showing any signs.

- Difficulties may arise in overcoming communication barriers.

Children and Young People with a Social Worker

At Tender, we recognise that when a child has a social worker, it is an indicator that the child is more at risk than most pupils. This may mean that they are more vulnerable to further harm, as well as facing educational barriers to attendance, learning, behaviour and poor mental health. We take these needs into account when making plans to support pupils who have a social worker.

Section 3: Responding to Disclosures and Allegations of Abuse Safeguarding Leads

In the event of a disclosure follow the protocols as set out in Appendix A

Tender's Designated Safeguarding Lead is Susie McDonald, Chief Executive.

Susie can be contacted at:

Tender, The Resource Centre, 356 Holloway Road London, N7 6PA.

Tel: 020 7697 4247

Or mobile: 07957 971 974

Or email: susie@tender.org.uk

Tender's Deputy Designated Safeguarding Lead is Kate Lexen, Director of Programmes.

Kate can be contacted at:

Mobile: 07794 082 254

Or email: kate@tender.org.uk

In the unlikely event of members of staff being unable to contact the DSL or Deputy DSL, they must report any urgent concerns directly to the child or young person's local authority Children's Services team or the Police.

It is the responsibility of the person receiving the disclosure to do something about it. Practitioners who make a referral should always follow up their concerns if they are not satisfied with the response.

NSPCC Child Protection Helpline

Guidance on responding to a child disclosing abuse

Research shows that survivors of abuse asked only three things of those who they disclose to: Hear me, believe me and respect me. These are the three principles to remember when hearing a disclosure:

Introduction

It should always be remembered it is a privilege when a person trusts you enough to disclose experiences of abuse and violence. If the abuse is current this is a very frightening time for the child or young person who is telling you to try and stop the abuse happening to them or their loved ones. It is very brave, defiant, and often desperate act as they will have an awareness of the possible repercussions from the perpetrator for telling their secret. By the time a disclosure takes place the person has usually tried many different ways to stop or prevent the violence and abuse, however they have been unsuccessful. A disclosure is the final step in trying to end a dangerous situation.

Disclosures within a school setting and an after-school setting

When a child or young person discloses experience of current child abuse it is the responsibility of the person who receives the disclosure to follow section, 'Receiving a disclosure of abuse' (Appendix A) and the steps outlined in the table. Ultimately the organisation that has employed Tender have the responsibility to safeguard the child or young person and Tender will pass on the disclosure, so they can progress it.

Disclosures within a Tender led project

Tender has ultimate responsibility for progressing disclosures for children or young people who are involved in Tender's work and are not attached to a school or after-school setting. This includes Tender's Youth Board, Youth Facilitators and some Specialist Provision programmes. Follow the steps 'Receiving a disclosure of abuse' and in the table, 'Reporting and responding to abuse' (Appendix A, B & E) to act appropriately to disclosures.

Disclosures of abuse from an adult at risk

In the case of a disclosure from a vulnerable adult, the same steps should be followed as with a child/young person depending on whether they're attached to a school, after school or Tender project.

Responding to disclosures of historic violence and abuse

There is considerable evidence to show that the majority of disclosures are disclosures of historic abuse rather than current abuse. It is a healthy response to a traumatic experience and does not need to be feared by those working with children and young people. There are many reasons why a person chooses to disclose experiences of historic abuse. Firstly, it is considerably safer to talk about their experiences of abuse when they are no longer threatened by the perpetrator. The experience of violence and abuse can feel very shameful, and part of a person's recovery can be to articulate and speak out about the experience. This can help them to breakdown the feelings of shame, guilt and embarrassment which are often associated with abuse. The response of the practitioner can also play a part in the recovery. Simply by listening and validating the person's experiences can assist them to feel understood and help to reduce the feelings of shame or responsibility.

If the young person is under 18 years old Tender believes it is good practice to follow the same steps as for those experiencing current abuse to ensure the well-being of the child, siblings and non-abusive parent.

If the young person is 18 or older Tender would sign post them to support services and sources of further information listed below.

Guidance on receiving a disclosure of abuse from a child:

- Stay calm.
- Listen carefully to what is said.
- Do not promise to keep secrets – find an appropriate early opportunity to explain that it is likely that the information will need to be shared with others.
- Allow the child to continue at their own pace.
- Only ask questions for clarification purposes – at all times avoid asking questions that suggest a particular answer.
- Reassure the child that they have done the right thing in telling you.
- Tell them what you will do next and with whom the information will be shared.
- Record in writing what was said using the child's own words as soon as possible – note date, time, any names mentioned and to whom the information was given and ensure that the record is signed and dated.
- Thank them for telling you and acknowledge how challenging it must be for them, by saying something like, 'Thank you for telling me it sounds like a really hard time for you and your family.'

Allegations of abuse made against staff

This section should be read in conjunction with Tender's Whistle Blowing Policy. If a member of the Tender team, a workshop leader, trustee or a volunteer has a concern about the conduct of another member of the team or an adult at the setting towards a child or young person they must report this allegation to Tender's Designated Safeguarding Lead.

An allegation is when a person has a concern that someone has behaved:

- In a way that harmed or may have harmed a child.
- Possibly committed a criminal offence against or related to a child.
- Behaved towards a child in a way that indicates they are unsuitable to work with children.

If the allegation is against Tender's Safeguarding Lead the allegation should be made to Tender's Designated Safeguarding Lead on the trustee board:

Laura Sanford
laura.sanford@woodsidehighschool.co.uk
07748965494.

If the allegation is against a member of staff in a school or out of school setting this must be taken directly to the headteacher or setting Safeguarding Lead by Tender's DSL.

How to make an allegation (see Appendix G):

- The allegation should be made within 24 hours of the concern.
- The person making the allegation should contact Tender's Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL). If the DSL is not available, contact should be made with the Deputy DSL.
- Once contact has been made the allegation form is to be completed and emailed to the DSL only.

Tender's responsibilities once an allegation has been received:

If the allegation is against a member of the Tender team: within 24 hours Tender's Safeguarding Lead will contact Islington LADO (Local Authority Designated Officer) to report the allegation and seek advice on further procedure.

If the allegation is against a member of the setting's team: within 24 hours Tender will pass the allegation to the head teacher of the host organisation to follow up on.

LADO@islington.gov.uk, 020 7527 8102.

After a discussion with the LADO Tender's Safeguarding Lead will contact the alleged person to provide them with the document 'LADO guidance – allegations made against staff' along with suspending them from their duties until further notice.

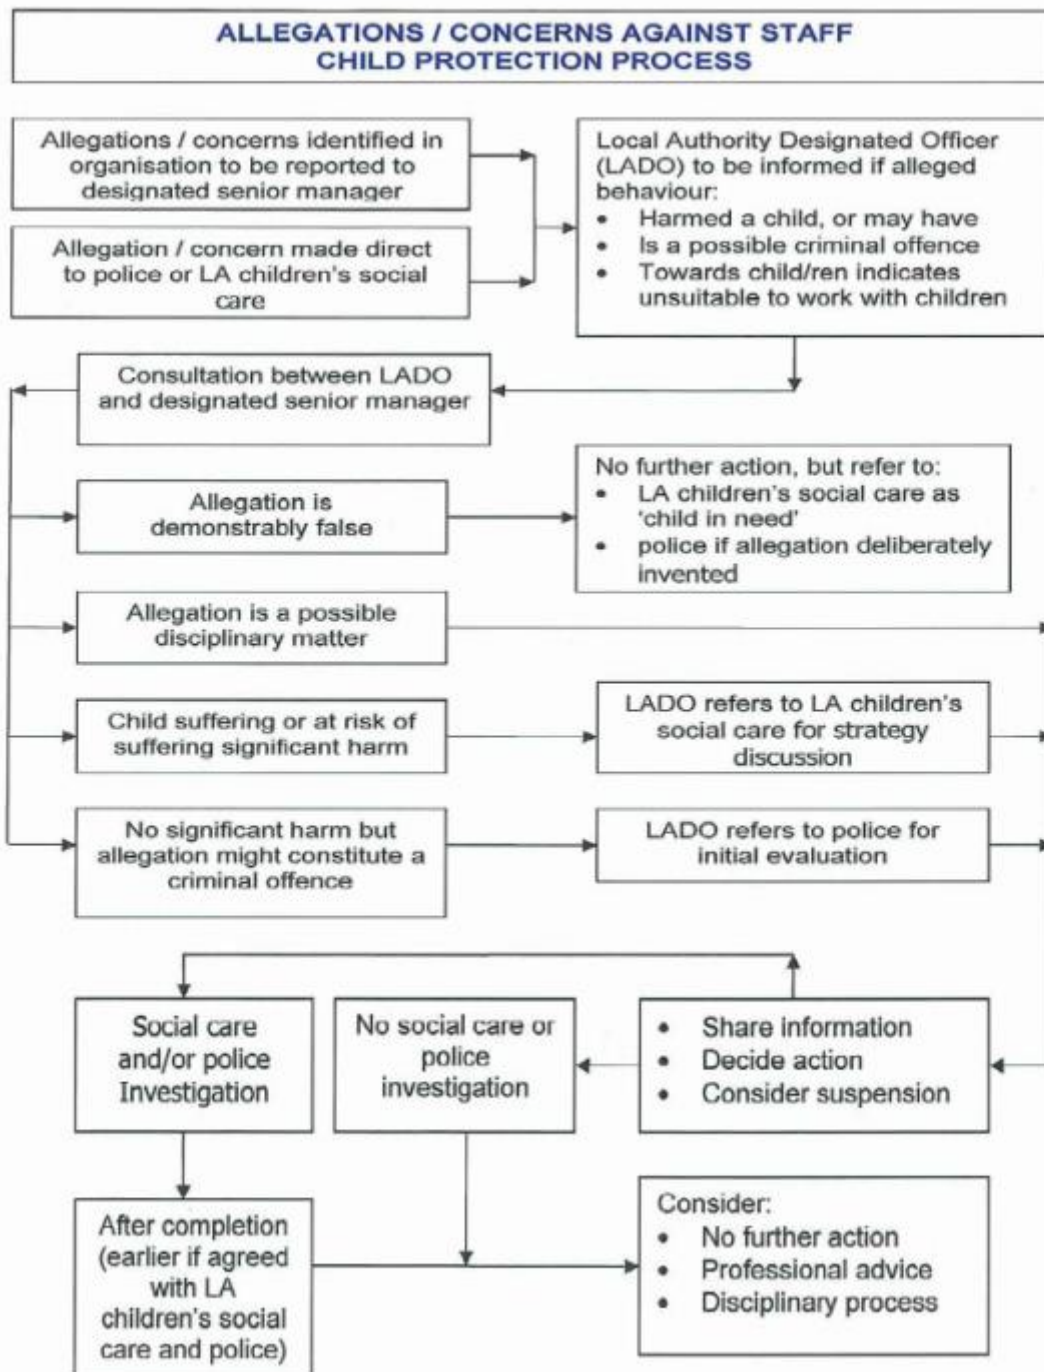

If a child/young person has made the allegation against a member of Tender's team, Tender will follow the above procedure and keep the child/young person up to date on progress, tell them the outcome of the investigation and provide any further support required as appropriate to age and understanding.

After the allegation has been received by Islington LADO:

The LADO will begin an investigation into the allegation which is expected to take a maximum of one month. Once the investigation has been completed the alleged person will either be able to return to work sensitively or dismissed.

APPENDIX B: Code of Conduct

Tender Code of Conduct Workshop Leaders

This Code of Conduct provides guidance for workshop leaders on what is expected of them when delivering work on behalf of Tender.

If you have any questions about this guidance, please email Kate Lexén on kate@tender.org.uk.

The purpose of the code is:

- To maintain consistent quality, professionalism and effectiveness across all of Tender's work.
- To ensure workshop leaders are fully aware of the standards expected of them.
- To ensure that Tender maintains a deserved reputation for the high standards of its activities and the integrity of its representatives at all levels.

1. Professional Conduct – Participants

Workshop leaders delivering Tender workshops and training must maintain their role as a professional educator to both partners and participants and meet the high standards of delivery expected by Tender. They should always ensure that Tender's projects create spaces in which participants, particularly children and young people, are always valued, respected, listened to and taken seriously.

All workshop leaders should read the new 'Introduction and Guidance' section at the beginning of the 'Tender Facilitators' Pack', available in PDF format from Tender's SharePoint (email Tender for access).

2. Professional Conduct – Partner Organisations

Workshop leaders must maintain a high standard of professionalism, in particular, though not exclusively, in relation to partner organisations (e.g., schools, youth centres and other VAWG organisations). Any issues arising with partner organisations should be discussed with Tender in the first instance, in order that any necessary action can be taken at management level. Care must be taken whilst on or near partner organisations' premises to ensure that discussions, including those with colleagues, maintain professionalism and could not be interpreted as criticising partners or Tender.

3. Safeguarding

Safeguarding procedures:

Workshop leaders must remind themselves of Tender's safeguarding policy and procedures before every project or workshop. It is important that the statement in the quick reference guide is read out in every workshop.

The setting's role:

In any settings where the participants are under 18 years old, the partner organisation is expected to ensure that a member of staff is present at all times. If no staff member is present at the start of the session, the workshop leader should not start the session and should contact Tender to discuss next steps. Similarly, if setting staff leave during the workshop, leaving the workshop leaders alone, the workshop leaders should pause the session and contact Tender before continuing. In settings where the participants are over 18 years old, Tender will agree with them in advance whether a particular person should be present and, if so, inform the workshop leaders.

The workshop leader is not in the setting as a teacher or teacher substitute and should maintain appropriate boundaries. Workshop leaders should not be pulled into roles that are not their responsibility or remit, such as disciplining participants. If a young person has an accident the setting staff are responsible for administering first aid.

Contact with participants:

Avoid any unnecessary physical contact with children and young people, and discourage participants from making physical contact with you, except where it is a necessary part of a drama exercise. This includes any physical contact to control or manage interactions between the young people – this is the responsibility of the teacher present at the workshop.

Be aware that some students may be uncomfortable with physical contact (particularly with the opposite sex).

DBS checks:

All workshop leaders working with young people or vulnerable adults must hold an up-to-date DBS check (dated within the previous 2 years) or be signed up to the update service. Workshop leaders must bring their original DBS document and a valid form of photo ID to all sessions.

Workshop leaders must inform Tender immediately if they are arrested, charged, convicted or cautioned for any offence. Workshop leaders must also inform Tender immediately if they cease working for another organisation as a result of a safeguarding issue, complaint against them or disciplinary issue. If a workshop leader does not inform Tender of these matters and they come to Tender's attention, Tender reserves the right to immediately cease working with that workshop leader.

5. Communication with Young People

Any communication with young people, beyond that which takes place as part of project delivery, is prohibited. This includes but is not limited to:

- Online contact including services such as Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and internet forums; and instant messaging including WhatsApp, Signal, and email.
- Telephone contact: messages or calls from mobiles or landlines.
- Meeting a young person outside of contracted sessions.

Should a young person attempt to contact you online or in person, you should reject their request or not respond, and inform Tender.

If a young person wishes to get into contact with you, they can contact Tender and we will pass the message on.

If you or the child/young person needs to pass on information regarding a performance or workshop, in all instances it should go through the allocated teacher/youth leader of the project, the school or Tender and they/ we will liaise on your/ the student's behalf. Tender can be contacted at home@tender.org.uk or 0207 697 4275.

5. Contracts

Workshop leaders must sign and return a copy of each project or workshop contract they receive within one week, and in any event at least one week before the date of the project or workshop.

6. Safety, Wellbeing, and Illness

The safety of workshop leaders and participants is of paramount importance to Tender. If a workshop leader is unable to deliver a project or workshop they have agreed to, they should inform Tender as early as possible so that alternative arrangements can be made. If a workshop leader informs another workshop leader that they are unable to deliver a project or workshop that they are co-facilitating, that workshop leader should discuss with Tender, not with the school.

The project or workshop contract will contain details of the cancellation and payment policy. Tender encourages workshop leaders to make use of Tender's Employee Assistance Programme should they require any support following a workshop.

7. Monitoring Forms

After each session, a monitoring form must be completed describing the content of the session, issues to be addressed etc. These forms must be returned to Tender within 3 days of the session. Failure to return monitoring forms may cause delays in authorising invoices for the corresponding work. Workshop leaders will be signposted to the monitoring form when contracted to deliver a project.

8. Questionnaires

Evaluative questionnaires for projects will be sent to workshop leaders along with resources. Please ensure these are completed as instructed as these can differ from project to project. Please ensure all questionnaires are checked for potential disclosures and posted to the office within 7 days of the end of the project.

9. Dress

Workshop leaders should take care to dress appropriately for the sessions they deliver. Clothes should be clean and in good condition and avoid logos or designs that could distract participants.

10. Timekeeping

Session contracts will generally state the start and end times of face-to-face delivery. It is the workshop leader's responsibility to ensure they arrive in good time to locate their lead contact and where possible the Designated Safeguarding Lead for the setting, go to the session location and set up anything necessary before the stated start time. All sessions should run their full stated length unless otherwise directed by the partner organisation.

Workshop Leaders should ensure they have communicated with their co-facilitator to plan the session before arriving at the session location.

11. Resources

All workshop leaders will be provided with the Tender Facilitator Pack when they start work at Tender. Project specific resources will be provided and/or will be available on Tender's

SharePoint. If you are missing resources or if further copies of resources are required for subsequent work, it is the workshop leader's responsibility to inform Tender with sufficient notice prior to the work taking place.

It is the responsibility of Workshop Leaders to keep up to date with new projects, resources, training opportunities and changes to Tender via the monthly workshop leader newsletter. Historical copies of the newsletter are uploaded to the SharePoint folder.

12. Intellectual Property

Tender's resources and working methods are the intellectual property of Tender and are provided to workshop leaders for the sole purpose of delivering Tender projects. At no point should these be passed to any third party, including partner organisations, without express consent from Tender. Tender's resources and working methods should not be used in the delivery of any projects or workshops outside Tender projects (e.g., if a workshop leader delivers work on behalf of another organisation).

13. Ongoing Training and Observation

Workshop leaders are expected to complete appropriate training before commencing work as facilitators for Tender and will be required to complete refresher and ongoing professional training to continue working with Tender over time. In particular, workshop facilitators must complete safeguarding training at least every two years. The training will be arranged and delivered by Tender.

Periodically Tender will send a member of staff to observe sessions and/or performances, for quality assurance and staff development purposes as well as to escort guests who are interested in supporting Tender.

14. Photography, Recordings and Social-Media

Some Tender workshops and performances are filmed and/or recorded by other means. Signing this code of conduct gives consent for any recordings that include you to be used by Tender for promotional purposes. If you would prefer Tender to not use photographs or recordings that include you, please contact Kate Lexén on kate@tender.org.uk.

Workshop leaders must not take any photographs or recordings during workshops, unless agreed in advance with Tender. Tender will endeavour to provide appropriate equipment for any approved photography or recordings.

We encourage workshop leaders to share social media posts from Tender. Workshop leaders using their own social media profiles, blogs or websites to promote their work with Tender should make it clear that they are doing so in a personal capacity. When referring to their work with Tender, workshop leaders must not: disclose confidential information; abuse or harass anyone; post photographs without obtaining Tender's permission; share content which is libellous, defamatory, offensive, racist, obscene, or which infringes copyright; or post anything which brings Tender into disrepute. If a workshop leader is contacted by the press about any social media posts relating to their work with Tender, they should talk to their Tender contact immediately and under no circumstances respond directly. Tender's logo and trademarks can be used by workshop leaders when posting about their work with Tender.

15. Equality

Tender is an equal opportunity service provider, committed to ensuring practices free from unlawful or unfair discrimination. We aim to promote equity, diversity and inclusion in everything we do. Workshop leaders must ensure their delivery is inclusive and non-discriminatory and reflects and celebrates the diversity of participants and acknowledges and explains the ways in which inequality and discrimination affect minoritised groups within the context of domestic abuse and sexual violence.

16. Raising Concerns and Disciplinary Procedures

If a workshop leader has concerns about the behaviour of any setting staff, co-facilitator(s) or a member of the Tender team which is a safeguarding issue, please follow the procedures in the Tender Safeguarding policy. If a workshop leader has any concerns about any behaviour which is not a safeguarding concern, they should contact Kate Lexén on kate@tender.org.uk for a confidential discussion about the issues.

Workshop leaders are expected to challenge any unlawful, unethical, or inappropriate behaviours where the session plan covers such behaviours. In all other circumstances, please do not discuss the behaviour with the person about whom you have concerns (instead, contact Tender as outlined above).

Any incidents of behaviour falling below the standards expected in this Code of Conduct will be investigated by Tender, and Tender may temporarily or permanently cease working with a workshop leader if this Code of Conduct is breached. Tender may require that a workshop leader complete additional training (without pay) to address any breaches of this Code of Conduct before working with them again. Tender reserves the right to remove a workshop leader from a project without pay if this Code of Conduct is breached.

Quick Reference Guide

Please read this quick reference guide before every project or workshop you deliver on behalf of Tender.

Confidentiality Agreement

Always state the following confidentiality statement at the beginning of your first session workshop with young people:

"We would like to keep what is talked about during the sessions, private and 'in the room'. But we can't guarantee this so if you don't want to talk about anything personal please don't feel you have to. If anything that we talk about in the sessions brings issues up for you, then we'll be around after each session should you want to talk to us. However, if you tell us something that we are concerned could be harmful to you or endangering you then we would need to tell the Designated Safeguarding Lead in the school/youth project so that you can be made safe. The Safeguarding Lead here is"

Resources

You will have been sent any resources specific to the project or workshop by email. You can access Tender's resource hub here: Tender Workshop Leader Resources.

Photography and Recording

Do not take any photographs or recordings during the project or workshop unless this has been agreed in advance with Tender.

Contact with Participants

Avoid any unnecessary physical contact with children and young people, and discourage participants from making physical contact with you, except where it is a necessary part of a drama exercise.

What to do if....

- You are unwell before the project or workshop: please tell your Tender contact as far in advance of the project or workshop as possible. If you are unwell on the day of the project or workshop, please call the co-ordinator that booked you onto the project in the first instance. Their contact details can be found on the coversheet of your session plan.
- You become unwell during a project or workshop, or unable to continue with a workshop for any reason: please tell your co-facilitator and then contact the co-ordinator that booked you onto the project. Once you have told us, please leave the project or workshop immediately. We will work with the co-facilitator and school to complete the project or workshop if possible.
- Your co-facilitator becomes unwell immediately before or during a workshop: pause the workshop and please call the co-ordinator that booked you onto the project to discuss how to proceed.
- There is an incident which could risk your safety or wellbeing, e.g., an incident between participants: pause the workshop and call us on 0207 697 4277 to discuss how to proceed. Allow the setting staff present to deal with the incident.
- If there is no member of setting staff present at the start or during any part of the project or workshop: do not begin or continue the workshop and call the co-ordinator that booked you onto the project to discuss how to proceed.

- If there is a safeguarding incident: follow Tender's safeguarding procedure, available here: Safeguarding.
- If a participant tries to initiate physical contact such as a hug: deflect them and offer a handshake or high five.
- If a participant contacts you after the project or workshop, in person or online: do not respond and immediately contact your usual Tender contact.

APPENDIX D: Disclosure Process for Schools and Youth Settings

If a child/young person discloses information to you indicating that they may be at risk of immediate danger, or that the risk is current, you should take the following steps:

1. The supervising teacher/staff member, and co-facilitator, must be made aware that there has been a disclosure, as soon as is practically possible.
2. You must inform the Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL) - or member of the safeguarding team - before leaving the setting. Reporting to the DSL in the setting will ensure sustainable support for that child/young person, which Tender cannot provide, due to the short-term nature of the interaction with the child/young person.
3. The actual details of the disclosure must only be shared with the DSL or member of their team, not the supervising teacher/staff member in the room.
4. If the DSL is not on site, you should ask what procedure the setting takes when this is the case and follow it accordingly.
5. Inform Tender's DSL, Susie McDonald, as soon as is practically possible. This is preferably done via email: susie@tender.org.uk. However, if the situation is urgent you can contact her by phone: 07957 971 974.
6. Complete the Disclosure Report Form in as much detail as possible and send to Susie McDonald. Ideally, this should be sent on the same day, but must always be received within 24-hours of the disclosure taking place. Please do not copy other members of Tender staff into this email as it should only be read by the DSL and considered confidential. The Safeguarding Lead may share necessary information about the disclosure with appropriate members of Tender staff in order to ensure effective decision making about next steps. All conversations and communications will remain confidential.

Please note: the Disclosure Report Form should be sent as a Word document so that any appropriate edits/amendments can be made prior to sharing it with the school/setting.

7. On receiving the Disclosure Report Form, Susie McDonald will confirm receipt and make every effort to contact the school/setting DSL immediately. Once Susie has confirmed that she has received the Disclosure Report Form, you should delete any record of this from your personal devices (including any email attachments).

Important:

If the disclosure is made by the child to a teacher or staff member in the presence of a Tender workshop leader, it is the responsibility of the setting to report to their DSL to progress it. The workshop leader should still complete a Disclosure Report Form and forward to Susie McDonald.

Cause for Concerns:

You should follow the same process if the incident is a cause for concern rather than a disclosure. If you are reporting a cause for concern, please make this known when you send the Disclosure Report Form.

APPENDIX E: Disclosure Process within Post-18 Educational Settings

Tender's Safeguarding Procedure Disclosures within a Post-18 Educational Setting

This does NOT include 6th form colleges where our children and young people safeguarding guidance should be followed.

If a participant over the age of 18 discloses information to a workshop leader indicating that they may be at risk of immediate danger, or that the risk is current, the workshop leader will take the following steps:

- Explain to them that you are concerned about their safety and wellbeing and that you need to talk to the DSL in the setting. Encourage them to feel included in the conversation.
- Contact Tender's DSL, Susie McDonald as soon as possible and complete the post-18 disclosure report form, which you should send to her.

If the person is over 18 and discloses a historic event or something that does not put them in immediate danger, use the following guidance:

- Talk to the person to establish consent to pass on what you have been told to the safeguarding lead in the setting in which you are delivering the session. Where possible, tell them the name of the safeguarding lead. If they give consent, make contact with the DSL in the setting and where possible, include the person in any communications.
- If the person says that they don't want the disclosure shared, as they are over 18, that is their right. You should, however, complete the 18+ disclosure report form, without adding the name of the person and send to Tender's DSL, Susie McDonald as soon as is practically possible by email: susie@tender.org.uk. Susie can make contact with the DSL at the setting to make them aware that there has been a disclosure, without giving any specific details.
- Suggest to the person that they might consider accessing support or information and refer to our helpline card as a useful starting point for specialist services.

APPENDIX F: Disclosure Report Form

When a child or young person discloses to you, it is important that you see the Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL) before leaving the setting, to make them aware of the disclosure. If they are not available, please ask what the procedure is for ensuring the DSL is aware that there has been a disclosure.

Please provide as much information as possible. This form is for Tender's records and will be forwarded to the Designated Safeguarding Lead at the school/setting in which the disclosure took place.

APPENDIX H: Photography and Video

Many of our projects and productions are photographed and videoed. We may wish to make a photographic record of activities for a number of reasons, including the promotion of our work, the compilation of reports and archival purposes. However, it is possible for offenders to manipulate images of children to create child pornography; individual children can also be identified with a particular school or setting and then targeted for abuse or kidnapping or recognised by a domestic abuse perpetrator. In order to mitigate these risks, we should:

- Seek the active and informed consent of the teacher or setting contact with which we are working, to take the photographs or film in the first place, and to use it for specified purpose(s).
- Ensure that images of children are stored securely.
- Ensure that children and young people should only be identified using first names in press releases and marketing material.

It is also important that all young people photographed or filmed complete press and image consent forms prior to filming. This includes gaining parental consent for those under the age of 18 years and under the age of 21 for those with Special Educational Needs for use in Tender's marketing material.

APPENDIX I: E-safety

The use of information technology is an essential part of all our lives; it is involved in how we as an organisation gather and store information, as well as how we communicate with each other. It is also an intrinsic part of the experience of our children and young people and is greatly beneficial to all. However, it can present challenges in terms of how we use it responsibly and, if misused either by an adult or a young person, can be actually or potentially harmful to them.

We will promote e-safety by:

- Ensuring safety online applies to all staff, including senior managers and the board of trustees, paid staff, volunteers and sessional workers, agency staff, students and anyone working on behalf of Tender.
- Protecting children and young people who receive Tender's services and who make use of information technology (such as mobile phones, games consoles and the Internet) as part of their involvement with us.
- Ensuring that, as an organisation, we operate in line with our values and within the law in terms of how we use information technology.
- Working in partnership with children, young people, and other agencies, which is essential in promoting young people's welfare and in helping young people to be responsible in their approach to e-safety.
- Developing a range of procedures that provide clear and specific directions to staff on the appropriate use of ICT.
- Supporting and encouraging the young people using our service to use the opportunities offered by mobile phone technology and the internet in a way that keeps themselves safe and shows respect for others.
- Incorporating statements about safe and appropriate ICT use into the codes of conduct both for staff and volunteers and for children and young people.
- Using our procedures to deal firmly, fairly and decisively with any examples of inappropriate ICT use, complaints or allegations, whether by an adult or a child/young person (these may include breaches of filtering, illegal use, cyberbullying, or use of ICT to groom a child or to perpetrate abuse).
- Reviewing and updating the security of our information systems regularly.
- Providing adequate physical security for ICT equipment.
- Ensuring that usernames, logins and passwords are used effectively.

- Using only official email accounts provided via the organisation and monitoring these as necessary.
- Ensuring that the personal information of staff and service users (including service users' names) are not published on our website.
- Ensuring that images of children, young people and families are used only after their written permission has been obtained, and only for the purpose for which consent has been given.
- Any social media tools used in the course of our work with children, young people and families must be risk assessed in advance by the member of staff wishing to use them.
- Providing effective management for staff and volunteers on ICT issues, through supervision, support and training.
- Examining and risk-assessing any emerging new technologies before they are used within the organisation.

We recognise that:

- The welfare of the children/young people who come into contact with our services is paramount and should govern our approach to the use and management of electronic communications technologies.
- Staff should not contact young people via social networking sites or phones.

Online safeguarding – Moderating

Definition

Public interactive communication services through which individuals can make contact and exchange personal information with other users in a virtual public “space” such as but not limited to:

- Message boards
- Chat services
- Text to screen
- TV chat services
- Interactive games with chat or messaging facilities, and
- Chat or game services that use ‘location services’ as part of the communication facilities.

Tender follows the Home Office Good Practice Guidance for Moderation of Interactive Services for Children. It recommends that organisations:

- Assess the potential risk to children; establish if it would be appropriate to use moderation and, if so, decide the form of moderation to use.

- If using human moderation, assess the risk that a child abuser may apply for a position and develop policies for the safer recruitment, training, management, and supervision of moderators to safeguard against this.
- Make clear to users whether the interactive service is moderated, and if so, by what means, either human or technical moderation.
- Provide clear and prominent information to users about the kind of service offered, for example is the chat room moderated or un-moderated? If moderated, what form of moderation is used, i.e., technical, or human moderation and how does it work?
- Advise parents of the importance of communicating with their children about their safety online on a regular and consistent basis, as moderation or other safeguards are not foolproof.
- Regularly update children and young people of the potential risks to them. This should include what additional measures they can take, for example, tools to block communication or record communication dialogue etc.
- Inform users of a moderated interactive service that they have a means of contacting the moderator for assistance if they have concerns or difficulties when using the service In mass emails, only blind copying respondents and not sharing email addresses of young people with each other unless relevant safeguarding and consent forms have been signed and agreed by the young people and their parents or carers. Records of young people; Tender staff need to be mindful of the Data Protection Act when archiving and destroying information regarding young people. Distribution of young people's contact details and information can only happen when permission is sought either from the young person or, if under 18 from their parents.

APPENDIX J: Project Planning

Project managers should carry out risk assessments as part of the process of planning projects and activities and continue to monitor the risks throughout the life of the project. In practice this will mean drawing up and applying guidelines to our core work and carrying out individual risk-assessments for one-off projects.

As part of the risk-assessment, it should be established:

- Who will lead or be involved in the activity, and therefore have contact with children and vulnerable adults?
- Must that person have a Disclosure check? Do they already have one?
- Does that person fully understand our Safeguarding policy? Have they read and signed the copy? Is the signed copy on their file?

Where is the activity to take place?

- Does the working environment present any risks in itself, either to the health and safety of the group, or specific child protection risks?
- Who is in charge of the building where the activity is to take place, and how do we contact them if anything goes wrong?

How many children, and what age-range are to be involved?

- What happens if we are asked to work with a larger group of children than we think is safe for the activity?
- What happens if some or all of the children are of an inappropriate age-group for the activity?

Who is responsible for supervising the children?

- What happens if our staff or workshop leaders are left in sole charge of children?
- What happens if a child behaves inappropriately during the session?
- What happens if a child leaves or tries to leave the session or activity?

What happens if there is an accident or injury during the session?

- If a child had to be taken to hospital, whom should we inform? Who should accompany the child?

What happens if a child makes an accusation against a member of our staff, or an artist employed by us?

- What procedure should the member of staff or artist follow?
- Who should be informed?

APPENDIX K: Safer Recruitment

VIGILANCE

Tender's priority is to create an environment where:

- A safe space is created in which children and young people can thrive, aspire and learn to the best of their ability.
- All staff are vigilant about looking out for potential harm to children and young people.
- Children are free from harm.
- Allegations are dealt with immediately and effectively.
- An open and safe environment creates a culture that is positive for all.
- Everyone is clear on roles, responsibilities and boundaries.
- Tender shows that safeguarding is a priority.
- Staff are protected from misplaced allegations.

When recruiting staff, Tender will take the following steps:

1. All applicants to submit a covering letter or application form alongside a curriculum vitae. A curriculum vitae on its own will not provide adequate information.
2. A face-to-face element will generally be included in the hiring process before a role is offered, for example through an in-person interview or through a facilitation day (for workshop leaders). Online interviews will still be offered to applicants (in particular, to ensure accessibility to applicants who may not be able to attend in person), but in such circumstances the Hiring Manager and Designated Safeguarding Lead will discuss additional due diligence checks to ensure safeguarding remains at the forefront of the process.
3. Work history is checked for gaps and should be explained (e.g., maternity leave). Work history must be verified, consistent and accurate.
4. Questions at interview should explore the work history and include a question about safeguarding to ensure the candidate understands its relevance, and their attitudes, values and behaviours are assessed.
5. References are requested and followed up on (ensuring that there is a question about appropriateness of candidate to work with children/young people). Tender's standard reference request form has been designed to ensure we elicit relevant information and referees are aware of the need to disclose accurate information.
6. DBS checks will be carried out once an offer of employment is made.
7. At the beginning of employment, induction includes focus on safeguarding policy and procedures, and ongoing and refresher training ensures all staff are kept up to date on the most recent legislative and Tender approach to safeguarding.
8. Regular supervision ensures monitoring of behaviour and performance.

Volunteers will be subject to the same rigorous processes set out in the recruitment and selection policy as paid staff, especially if they have contact with young people or vulnerable adults.

For Trustees

The Charity Commission outlines four clear expectations for trustees:

- Provide a safe and trusted environment. Safeguarding involves a duty of care to everyone who comes into contact with your charity, not just vulnerable beneficiaries like children and young people.
- Set an organisational culture that prioritises safeguarding, so it is safe for people to report incidents and concerns in the knowledge they will be dealt with appropriately.
- Have adequate safeguarding policies, procedures and measures to protect people and make sure these are made public, reviewed regularly and kept up to date.
- Handle incidents as they arise. Report them to the relevant authorities including the police and the Charity Commission. Learn from these mistakes and put in place the relevant mechanisms to stop them happening again.

APPENDIX L: Additional Information Only

The following references to the CAF (Common Assessment Framework) and Team Around the Child (TAC) processes are only for additional information purposes, for those working with children and young people.

CAF (Common Assessment Framework)

There may be occasions where a child presents behaviour that is of concern to professionals, but the situation is not a case of child abuse. In such instances a worker advocating on behalf of the child may request that a CAF (Common Assessment Framework) is completed with the young person. The CAF exists in order to provide a joined up, holistic and strategic response to young people's welfare. The assessment should be carried out by someone working with the child or young person on a regular basis in a professional capacity. The overarching aim of the CAF is to determine what level of support is required to assist the child or young person (and their families). The CAF is a voluntary process.

CAF is underpinned by an integrated approach to support and has been designed for use by all professionals working with children and families with additional needs, but who do not meet the threshold for more intensive interventions such as those associated with children's social care or safeguarding. Existing research suggests that CAF can lead to positive outcomes for children and families and help to enhance integrated working across the children's workforce (Gilligan and Manby, 2008; Norgate, Traill and Osbourne, 2009; Easton, Morris and Gee, 2010).

TAC (Team around the Child)

TAC is a model of multi-agency service provision. The TAC brings together a range of different practitioners from across the children and young people's workforce to support an individual child or young person and their family. The members of the TAC develop and deliver a package of solution-focused support to meet the needs identified through the common assessment. The TAC model often supports the Common Assessment Framework process. It is important that the child or young person and their family are involved in the TAC process.

It is unlikely that staff working with Tender should ever be directly involved in the CAF or TAC process. However, if observations are made about a child or young person by a member of staff representing Tender that are of concern, the worker should enquire whether or not the child or young person is involved in the CAF/TAC process and ensure that details are passed on to the relevant lead worker as appropriate.
